ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my advisor Prof. Dr. Nithiya Rattanapanone for providing me the opportunity of a lifetime to making it possible to undertake and complete this Ph.D. Program, and for providing a constant motivation, valuable guidance, suggestions, encouragement and assistance. I am also sincerely grateful to Dr. Elizabeth A. Baldwin, co-advisor for her valuable guidance suggestions and warm welcome at the USDA/ARS laboratory in Florida.

Grateful appreciation and gratitude are expressed to the Royal Golden Jubilee (RGJ) under the Thailand Research Fund (TRF) for awarding me a scholarship to study in this Ph.D. Program.

I would like to thank the thesis examining committee: Assoc. Prof. Dr. Danai Boonyakiat, Assoc. Prof. Supasark Limpiti, Dr. Pensiri Sriburi and Dr. Kanjana Mahattanatawee, for their intellectual guidance, valuable comments, suggestions and helpful criticism in the preparation and completion of the thesis.

Heartfelt gratitude is expressed to Dr. Kanjana Mahattanatawee who suggested, taught, encouraged and warmly took care of me during my stay in the USA. I especially wish to thanks Dr. John A. Manthey who taught me intellectual phenolic compounds analysis, for his valuable guidance, assistance, suggestions and encouragement. I am very please to acknowledge Dr. Gary Luzio for guiding and suggestion in pectin analysis.

I am greatly indebted to the Postharvest Technology Institute and Postharvest Horticultural Laboratory, Department of Horticulture, Faculty of Agriculture, Chiang Mai University, the USDA/ARS, Citrus and Subtropical Products Laboratory, Winter Haven, Florida, USA for permission of access to the instruments and supply research chemicals and technical assistance. Thanks to Mrs. Budsabong Kuntalue at Electron Microscopy Research and Service Center, Faculty of Science, Chiang Mai University for her advises and helpful in sample preparation for anatomical analysis and using the electron microscope.

Finally, but most importantly, the biggest thanks for my parents, my sister and my brother for their encouragement and love drove me to my destination.
